

Gobbolino, the witch's cat

A song for Hallowe'en by G.C. Westcott based on Ursula Moray William's wonderful story for children, find out more at:
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gobbolino,_the_Witch's_Cat

 One fine night in a wit - ch's ca - vern, — Two lit - tle kit - tens rolled on - to the floor; One, called Soot - i - ca, was black all o - ver; — The o - ther, Gob - bo - li - no, — had one white paw. Who'll give — a home to — a kit - ten? — Who'll give — a home to — a cat? Gob - bo - li - no, you may call me; — I want just — a fire and — a mat.

One fine night in a witch's cavern,
Two little kittens rolled on to the floor;
One, called Sootica, was black all over:
The other, Gobbolino, had one white paw.

Chorus

Who'll give a home to a kitten?
Who'll give a home to a cat?
Gobbolino you may call me;
I want just a fire and a mat.

One white paw and a sheen of tabby,
Two lovely eyes not green but blue,
None of the witches would take this kitten ...
And neither did his mother know what to do.

Then one day, when the sun was shining,
Gobbolino found he was all alone.
The witch had gone and deserted him for ever,
So Gobbolino washed himself, then he left home.