*The wonder of changing life.
A poem by Elizabeth E. Gould.
Melody by Dany Rosevear.*

Un - der - neath the wa - ter weeds Small and black, I wrig - gle, And life is much sur - pris - ing! Wig - gle! wag - gle! wig - gle! There's ev - 'ry now and then a most Ex - cit - ing change in me, I won - der, wig - gle! wag - gle! What I shall turn out to be!

Underneath the water-weeds
Small and black, I wriggle,
And life is most surprising!
Wiggle! waggle! wiggle!
There's every now and then a most Exciting change in me,
I wonder, wiggle! waggle!
What I shall turn out to be!
