

Snails lunch

<https://riverofsong.uk/>

Any gardener who has lost their young wallflowers to snails only hours after planting will appreciate this one.

A striking change of tempo characterizes this song and this would make a good finger play up and down a toddler's arm – first on one arm then the other. The simple game below will help develop a sense of space.

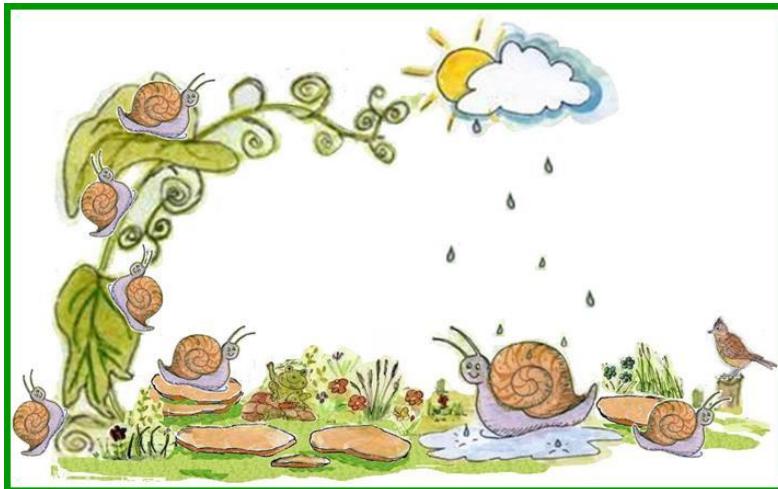

Verse 1. Creep slowly around the room in and out of each other.

Run quickly in and out – no bumping! 2. As before but moving hands in a biting movement. Rub tummy when running in and out. Stretch high and then crouch low to finish.

Words and music by Dany Rosevear ©

Snails, snails, snails, snails, In our gar - den crawl,
Oh my good - ness, how those snails run, Up the gar - den wall!

Snails, snails, snails, snails,
In our garden crawl,
Oh my goodness, how those snails run,
Up the orchard wall!

Snails lunch, munch, munch,
Hear them cry and call,
“Oh my goodness, so delicious,
Flowers big and small!”