

Snowdrops, snowdrops

<https://riverofsong.uk/>

A lovely rhyme for the first flowers of the year, it gives us a hint of the Spring to come.

Music by Dany Rosevear; as I was not able to find the tune.

Snow - drops, snow - drops, lit - tle drops of snow, What will you do when the cold___ winds blow? We'll hide our lit - tle heads___ and say:
"Cold wind, cold wind, go_____ a - way!"

Snowdrops, snowdrops, little drops of snow,
What will you do when the cold winds blow?
We'll hide our little heads and say:
"Cold wind, cold wind, go away!"

Snowdrops, snowdrops, dressed in green and white,
What will you do when the sun shines bright?
We ring our little bells and sing:
"Ting-a-ling, ting-a-ling, here comes Spring."
