<https://rivcrofsong.uk/>

You never know when winter is going to creep up on you, especially a snowy day, it calls so quietly in the night! Words and music by Dany Rosevear.

This could work as a handplay as below or for floating movements with white scarves.

Finger to lips. Hands swirl. Open eye with thumb and forefinger. Finger to lips. Hands to cheek. Stretch arms above heads.

The musical score is written on three staves in G major (one sharp) and 3/4 time. The first staff contains the first line of the song, with chords G and D7. The second staff contains the second line, with chords G, D7, and G. The third staff contains the third line, with chords C, G, D7, and G. The lyrics are: 'Win - ter whis - pers, soft with snow, Win - ter swirls and whirls and blows, Rob - in o - pens one lit - tle eye To a world as quiet as a lul - la - by; A won - der - land is win - ter's bed. Wake up! Wake up! All you sleep - py - heads!'.

Winter whispers, soft with snow,
Winter swirls and whirls and blows,
Robin opens one little eye
To a world as quiet as a lullaby;
A wonderland is winter's bed,
Wake up! Wake up! All you sleepyheads!
