A simple circle game and action rhyme.

Autumn is a good season for collecting mushrooms; I well remember doing this with my Polish father on Norfolk airfield just as he had done as a child in Poland. It is a good time to discuss the difference between mushrooms and toadstools. From 'We play and grow' by Maisie Cobby, published 1954. Music by Dany Rosevear.

Children choose to be a fairy, elf, pixie, goblin or any other named wee folk, They then crouch or sit in a circle with hands over their heads. One child weaves in and out of the circle and on the words, 'We may find a tiny ...' taps the nearest child who identifies themselves and becomes the new traveller.

Toad - stools here, Toad - stools there, Toad - stools grow - ing, ev - 'ry - where. If we lift one ve - ry gent - ly, And take a lit - tle peek, We may find a ti - ny fair - y Shel - ter - ing un - der - neath.

Toadstools here, toadstools there,
Toadstools growing everywhere.

If we lift one very gently,
And take a little peek,
We may find a tiny fairy
Sheltering underneath.
