

Magic / The witch's cat

A change in fortune for the witch's best friend.

The poem "Magic" by Patricia Watson was featured on the Thames Television ITV Schools series Seeing and Doing during the "Magic and Mysteries" episodes, which originally broadcast on 17th October 1983.

Dramatise this with hand and arm movements.

Twitching her tail, the witch's cat,
Lean and sleek, by the cauldron sat.
The fire burned bright and the wind blew cold,
The spells were strong in the days of old.

Now by the fire the black cats lie
And twitch their tails when the winds blow high.
Their green eyes dream of the dark night's ride
When they flew to the stars by the witches' side.
