Sleep my little treasure

Based on 'At the cradle' from Lyric Pieces Op. 68. A lullaby by Edvard Hagerup Grieg (1843-1907) Adapted, arranged and set to words by Dany Rosevear.

Sleep my little treasure, my dearest one,
Stars will keep a watch 'til the night is done,
I will rock your cradle, croon a lullaby,
As the friendly moon smiles up in the sky.

May you recall every day of your life;
May my warm arms keep you safe from strife.
In my arms a-rocking you shall gently lie,
As the little stars twinkle way up high.

Sleep my little child in your cosy bed,
Softly on your pillow rest your downy head,
Sleepy little child you're my joy and light,
Close those tired eyes, sleep all through the night.

Sleep my little treasure, my dearest one,
Stars will keep a watch 'til the night is done,
I will rock your cradle, croon a lullaby,
As the friendly moon smiles up in the sky.
